Dear valued Harris MCD customer,

On behalf of the entire Harris Microwave Communications Division work force dedicated to serving you, "Thank you! We appreciate your business."

We have made the announcement of our merger with Stratex Networks and are currently transforming our two companies into a single entity designed to be the strongest wireless transmission solutions provider in the world. As this process moves forward, we know you may have questions about the future of our product line, and would like to set your mind at ease.

When we become Harris Stratex Networks, we will continue to develop and provide solutions based on the product lines of both Harris MCD and Stratex. Our primary goals are to maintain the quality standard you have come to expect and to enhance the value of our solutions.

As a Harris MCD customer, be confident that we will continue to support and evolve the TRuepoint[®] and NetBoss[®] product lines and provide continuing support for products such as Constellation[®], MegaStar[®] and Aurora[®]. The TRuepoint product road map will include new features to meet current and future network requirements.

Please continue to work with us with full confidence, and know that you can rely on our superior products and solutions. We appreciate your loyalty and the opportunity to serve your needs now and in the future.

If you have further questions, please direct them to your regular account contact, who is dedicated to serving your needs. Thanks again for choosing Harris MCD.

Sincerely,

Guy M. Campbell, President
Harris Microwave Communications Division
